New safety fears after fatal crash

RENEWED calls have been made for changes to the A1307 near Haverhill following the deaths of a teenager and his grandfather.

Joshua Bysouth, 13, and Michael Kidd, 66, both of Saffron Walden, died in the crash on Sunday.

The A1307 has long been a cause for concern for road safety campaigners after a number of serious and fatal accidents on the stretch.

It is not yet known what caused Sunday's crash, in which a silver Audi A3 and a blue Hyundai Getz collided on the A1307 at the Bartlow and Balsham junction shortly after 12.30pm.

The 47-year-old driver of the Audi, from Haverhill, is in hospital in a stable condition. The East of England Ambulance Service treated him at the scene before taking him to Addenbrooke's.

Les Redhead, a Linton resident in his 50s, said: "It has been in the past an accident prone stretch of road between Abington and Haverhill."

Safety fears renewed as two killed in A1307 crash

He said following the installation of signs warning drivers between two and three years ago, the road had been safer, but recently he feared things were getting worse again.

A lengthy campaign has been waged for improvements and safety measures on the stretch of the A1307 between Four Went Ways and Haverhill, which was dubbed a 'death road' after claiming more than 30 lives in the past 10 years, before the latest tragedy.

Previous deaths included David Bocking, 43, and his teenage sons Daniel and Stephen in July 2008, and schoolgirls Imogen Barker, 15, and Alice Westland, 16, who died in separate collisions after getting off buses close to the Cardinals Green junction.

The A1307 Action Group represents residents of villages adjoining the road, which have campaigned for safety measures and against further expansion of Haverhill until these are provided.

Crash: Police at the scene of Sunday's incident

As much of the traffic on the road is bound for Haverhill, across the border into Suffolk, they feel Suffolk County Council should contribute towards road improvements.

Many of those who have died on the road have been from Haverhill and Haverhill town and borough councillors have also campaigned for safety measures to reduce the death toll on the road.

This week, people posting messages on the website of the Weekly News' sister paper the Cambridge News echoed these sentiments.

One poster, who signed their message L.D., said: "Josh was one of my best friends. I am truly sorry that a boy of his age could suddenly die and I am not able to say goodbye."

"I will miss him so much and would never want it to happen to any family again. So I agree everyone... slow the traffic down on that road, then I will be happy."

Highways chiefs have previously installed two speed cameras on the road, reduced the speed limit to 50mph, and launched a safety campaign in 2008 which called on drivers to Slow Down, Stay Aware and Stay Alive.

Another comment on the fatalities, from Matt Bradney, said: "What a tragedy. I am deeply saddened to see this road has taken yet more life. Lots has been tried to stop this road taking lives like it has, and whilst it had improved, this just knocks it right back."

"With a record like this road has there is a real case for even more work to be done. The calls for a speed reduction, however achieved, are well founded and should be looked at."

Suggestions from readers for improvements along the road, and in particular at junctions, included installing roundabouts, cutting the speed limit to 40mph and increasing the number of speed cameras.

One went even further, calling for the road to be closed until further notice to allow safety measures to be introduced.

Cambridgeshire County Council said it was too early to say if the road layout had played a part in the accident.

Cllr Steve Criswell, cabinet member for community infrastructure, said: "Our sympathies are with the family and friends of those killed and injured in this accident, but until the police establish the cause it would be inappropriate for us to comment further."

A statement from Saffron Walden County High School, which Joshua attended, said the school was "shocked and saddened to learn the tragic news."

The Bysouth and Kidd families, who have lived in Saffron Walden for decades, released a statement saying: "We are dealing with the sudden and tragic loss of a much loved and very popular father and grandfather, and his grandson."

BMW driver ran me off the road

DRIVER Chris Leaman believes he is lucky to be alive after being 'run off the road' by another car on the same stretch of road where two people died the following day.

Mr Leaman, 21, says his grey Citroen Xsara is a write-off and his girlfriend Rachel Thomas, 26, received whiplash injuries, in the collision on the A1307 just before Horseheath at around 5.15pm on Saturday.

As he was travelling to Cambridge to report his collision to Cambridgeshire police the next day,

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

he came to the scene of Sunday's crash in which grandfather Mr Kidd and Joshua were killed.

Mr Leaman is urging anyone who saw the incident he was involved in on Saturday to come forward.

He said: "It was about 300m down from where the accident happened on Sunday and I was basically run off the road by a BMW."

"It was towards the end of the dual carriageway and I was overtaking a blue Vauxhall when this BMW came right up the back of me. I sped up to try and make space for him to pull in, but he hit his brakes, and then undertook me.

"Then he pushed the back end of his car into the front end of mine and spun us sideways on into the central reservation. It did not stop, but I went after the driver. I managed to get a registration number when I saw an identical car parked outside a house, but it turned out to be the wrong car."

"I went to see the police in Haverhill and they said I would be better to report it to Cambridgeshire police. As I was driving to Cambridge, I ended up smack, bang in the middle of the accident on Sunday. It was really shocking what happened to us, but seeing that accident made me realise how much worse it could have been.

"I use the road every day to get to work and I think it is more down to the drivers than anything - I personally don't think there is anything wrong with the road."

A spokesman for Cambridgeshire Police confirmed that the incident was reported to them and would be investigated.

He appealed for any witnesses to call 0345 4564564 and quote the incident number IF-110908505.

Prayers said for Tebbutts as second man is charged over attack in Kenyan resort

PRAYERS have been said at a parish church in memory of murdered Briton David Tebbutt, and for the safe return of his wife Judith who is still missing in Kenya.

St Mary's Church in Haverhill, where 58-year-old Mr Tebbutt grew up, was open on Monday morning for those who wanted to remember him. Friends in his former home town were shocked and saddened at the news of his death last Monday, while on holiday at an exclusive Kenyan beachfront resort.

Tributes have been paid to the publishing executive, who is believed to have died trying to protect his wife, 56, from their attackers. Mrs Tebbutt, who is a social worker at Kneesworth House psychiatric hospital in Basingstoke, is believed to have been kidnapped by the six gunmen who burst into their secluded cottage, who are thought to be Somali pirates. The couple's only son Oliver lives in Hertfordshire.

Andrew Payne, a pioneer minister at St Mary's, said quite a few people had visited the church.

He said: "We did have quite a number of people in. Some lit candles in his memory and some just came to have some quiet time and space. We always keep the church open on Monday mornings from 9am to 2pm for people to come in. We have people here to talk to those who want to talk. The church is there for all the people of the town, not just Sunday people."

"All we can do is remember him in our thoughts and prayers, and pray for her safe return."

Jim Morgan, a former neighbour and friend of Mr Tebbutt in Wrattling Road, Haverhill, said: "All I know is what I have been reading in the papers, which is not that good. We are probably not going to hear anything for a while and you can only feel for Oli and all the family, waiting for news of Jude."

A second suspect has been charged in connection with the attack. Issa Sheikh Said has denied to a court that he was involved. Police have charged Said with robbery with violence and kidnapping.

Ali Babitu Kololo, the first suspect to be charged with involvement in the attack on the couple, told a court on Monday that the armed men forced him at gunpoint to cooperate.

He said he voluntarily went to the police the next day to report the crime.

After the attack the gunmen fled north by boat to Somalia.

Appeal over stolen scooter

A SCOOTER was stolen after being left at the back of a house overnight. Between 8pm on Friday, September 16 and 9am on Saturday, the red Gilera DNA 125cc scooter, registration LJ51KJY, was stolen from the street at the rear of a property in Pakenham Place, Haverhill. Calls relating to this theft or the whereabouts of the stolen vehicle should be made to Haverhill Police on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

Long service is rewarded

MEDALS to mark more than two decades of service have been presented to police officers and support staff in Suffolk. Sheriff Stephen Miles will be at the ceremony to present the medals for long service, with officers and staff being recognised for 20, 21 and 22 years service. There were 54 medals awarded for long service, with 35 going to police officers and police community support officers, 17 to police staff and two to specials. They included Haverhill Response Team officer PC Amos Owen, who has completed 21 years service. Chief Constable Simon Ash also presented 12 Merit awards to police officers, police staff and members of the Special Constabulary.

Market boost for gardeners

GARDENERS can stock up on their spring bulbs as a popular gardener's market opens for business this autumn. The Haverhill in Bloom group will be staging their event at Haverhill Recreation Ground in Camps Road on Sunday, October 1 from 9am to 2pm. There will be many plant stalls as well as a car boot sale, with cash raised from the event helping to raise cash for the group to provide more floral displays in the town, including providing troughs along the new railings in the Pightle.

History group set to meet

HAVERHILL and District Local History Group celebrates the first meeting of its new season with a talk on The History of Dolls' Houses, by Phyllis H Baptiste in the Arts Centre Studio at 7.30 on Wednesday, September 28. Admission is free to members and £2 for visitors.

Young writer Ella is TV hit

SCHOOLGIRL Ella Richardson found herself on a breakfast television sofa, rubbing shoulders with chart-topping band The Wanted, after winning a competition.

The 12-year-old from Haverhill is to become a published author after winning ITV1 Daybreak show's What's the Story? competition, which gave children a chance to create an illustrated book.

After receiving nearly 7,000 entries from budding authors around the country, it was Ella's story about a bear

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk struggling to fit in that caught the judges' eye.

The Wanted, Daybreak's Kate Garraway and children's illustrator Lydia Monks came together for the difficult task of deciding the winning story.

Lydia said: "Ella's story was a little bit different from all the others, that's why it grabbed me. She had created a whole new world. I loved the idea of Bee School, and the bear dressed up as a bee trying to fit in. As I read the story, the pictures popped into my head, which is always a good sign for an illustrator.

"It's got that lovely mix of humour and poignancy, that works so well in picture books. Well done Ella. I can't wait to start working on it. It's going to be a brilliant book."

Nathan, from The Wanted, said: "I think Ella's was a fantastic book based on the fact it was a great individual idea. There was literally nothing else like it and the idea to explore many different characters within the book, not just the one bee, was really cool as well.

"It had a moral as well which is always good to see in books and that is why it really stood out from the rest and hence why we chose it."

Ella, who hopes that her message about bullying reaches out to everyone who reads her book, said: "I still can't believe that out of 7,000 entries mine was chosen and that people will be able to read my story."

Speaking about the book's message and its underlying anti-bullying theme, Ella said: "Do not let it get you down as you are special in your own way, we're all meant to be different, we're not meant to be the same."

Ella's book will be available next spring.

Winner: Ella with The Wanted, who helped to judge the competition. Nathan - far right - said Ella's book "really stood out from the rest". CP

Songstress Jemma impresses judges in UK talent contest

TEENAGER Jemma Pollard caught the eye of the judges at an Open Mic UK audition and won her way through to the regional finals next month.

Jemma, 15, from Steeple Bumpstead, was one of the lucky few chosen from thousands of hopefuls who audition for the annual contest to find the county's best singers. She will now sing at the live regional finals at Basildon on Sunday, October 2, to try and gain a place in the national final at the O2 arena in London.

More than £50,000 in prizes is up for grabs and the overall winner will be offered a recording contract.

Jemma is currently studying on a young apprentice's course in hairdressing at Cambridge Regional College and also works at the Andrew James salon in Saffron Walden.

Girls night out raises £110,000

HUNDREDS of women who stepped out in aid of their local hospice on Saturday night made the event the charity's most successful ever.

Girls Night Out, which saw 700 women dressed in their pyjamas and flashing bunny ears walk 11.2 and six-mile routes around Bury St Edmunds, has raised an estimated £110,000.

This makes it the St Nicholas Hospice

Care Hospice's most successful fundraising event to date - smashing the £90,000 raised by Girls Night Out in 2010.

Jenny Baskett, hospice events and challenges fundraiser, said: "We're grateful to all those who gave up their Saturday night to take part in the event. Every single penny raised will go towards the hospice's vital work.

"I can't thank everyone enough."

School nears completion

FINAL touches have been made to the outside of a new primary school which is due to open next spring.

The final pieces of felt were fitted on the roof of the new Westfield Primary School site in Chalkstone Way, Haverhill, in a topping-out ceremony, with head teacher Rosie Campbell, chairman of school governors Ailie Wilkins and Cllr Graham Newman, Suffolk County Council's cabinet portfolio holder for children, schools and young people, doing the honours.

Works can now continue inside the building and pupils should be in for the spring term. The new building will include access to the outdoors from every class base, with the outdoor spaces designed to encourage learning. It is a sustainably designed building that will ensure CO2 emissions will be as low as possible, including a bio mass boiler which is shared with the new Samuel Ward Academy building.

Park proposal moves forward

DETAILED plans for a research park which could create up to 1,000 jobs – as well as a hotel, a pub, a crèche and 150 homes – have been submitted.

Carisbrooke Investments had its plan adopted by St Edmundsbury Borough Council in April for the 30-acre gateway site entering Haverhill from the Cambridge direction, which is aimed to bring a science park environment to the town.

Four individual outline planning applications have now been submitted for the development, which if approved before Christmas could result in the infrastructure and new buildings being built by end of next year.

The proposals for the Hanchett End site, adjacent to the town's Spirit of Enterprise roundabout, include up to 450,000 sq ft of research and business space, provision for up to 150 new homes alongside other buildings such as a hotel and day nursery. The plans follow a period of extensive public consultation, before St Edmundsbury Borough Council formally adopted a revised masterplan for the site.

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Nic Rumsey, Carisbrooke Investments' Director, who has been leading the project to date, said: "The submission of these planning applications marks an important milestone in the project and moves forward the vision for this comprehensive development.

"The scheme will generate significant employment opportunities, attract inward investment into Haverhill and also help meet local housing needs. Ultimately, these proposals will make a significant contribution to the long-term growth of the local economy and provide Haverhill with a landmark office and research park to be proud of.

"We have worked very hard in preparing our plans in accordance with the approved masterplan and look forward to seeing the applications progress through the planning process. We will, of course, continue to work closely with the council in order to bring the vision to reality."

Anyone who has any questions about the plans or status of the scheme can get in touch with the team directly on 0800 298 7040.

Details of the latest planning submission can be found by visiting www.haverhillresearchpark.com.

Carisbrooke has already created Haverhill Business Park, which currently provides nearly 400,000 sq ft of production, warehouse and office space to major firms such as Percy Dalton's, Buildbase, Terence Turner Tanks, Culina Logistics and the Days Inn Hotel.

Developer wants views on football club site

A DEVELOPER planning to build 90 homes at a former football club site is asking residents for their views.

After discussions with St Edmundsbury Borough Council over the future of their site off Hamlet Road, in Haverhill, previously Haverhill Rovers Football Club ground, Bloor Homes has announced proposals to provide new housing for the local community.

Before any application is submitted to the council, Bloor will be holding a public exhibition where those attending can view exhibition boards, discuss the proposals with their representatives and provide feedback.

The public exhibition will be held at the Independent URC Church, Hamlet Road, Haverhill on Tuesday between noon and 6.30pm.

The firm intends to build the homes on five acres of the nine acre site, to avoid the housing becoming too dense.

Jim Woolnough, Bloor's director of land planning, said of the scheme: "We believe that our proposal will provide much-needed housing stock in the Haverhill area and allow those who wish to live in the area more access to quality housing.

"Having analysed the need of the area, more families can now live where they wish."

Petrol stations pumping us for extra cash in Haverhill?

Sir, I have never written to a local paper before, but I feel so strongly about this I thought it was about time I did.

My complaint is the price of petrol at Sainsbury's petrol station in Haverhill. I am sure there are other people in Haverhill who feel the same as me.

I have had the occasion to write to the manager of Sainsbury's on an entirely different matter, but he didn't reply to my letter then, so I thought I would write to you. I also notice that all the local petrol stations seem to all stick together when it comes to the price per litre of petrol – why is this?

The little garage just out of Linton sells his petrol sometimes 1p less than the garages in Haverhill. You only have to go to Saffron Walden Tesco or Bury St Edmunds and their petrol is far cheaper than ours. Sainsbury's never seem to give their loyal shoppers the benefit of a fair price on petrol and if other Sainsbury's supermarkets can do it why can't they?

Please don't let Sainsbury say it's because of our location because that's rubbish. I would be interested to know if other residents in Haverhill feel the same if they do they should write to you.

Help needed on 'lost' brass bands

Sir, I am researching the histories of 'lost' brass bands in Suffolk.

In the 1900s there were estimated to be about 30,000 brass bands in the UK. Nearly every village had one, towns had several, cities had dozens. Today there are only about 3,000, so somewhere there must be an awful lot of instruments, and memories, tucked away in attics and cupboards.

Many factors had a part to play in the demise of the village band; the migration of people from village to town during the Industrial Revolution, the coming of the railways meant easier travel to towns for entertainment and, of course, two World Wars plucked many of our young men from this life.

The brass band was an important element in the social and religious life of the village, playing at fetes, harvest festivals, even funerals, Christmas carolling etc. and it is an aspect that I feel should be recorded in print for future generations of historians.

I have recently finished researching the histories of the 'lost' village bands in North Essex and have written up their history in a book entitled Grandad Played the Cornet. I would now like to do the same for bands in Suffolk.

Could I please ask your readers for details, even just the name, of any

Haverhill

Record numbers of children who completed a summer reading game went along to their local library to receive medals and prizes.

A total of 357 youngsters signed up at Haverhill Library to take part in the game, which had a Circus Stars theme this year, and 191 of them completed challenge of reading the six books during their six-week summer holiday.

Cllr Maureen Byrne, Haverhill mayor, was joined by deputy mayor Patrick Harlow, as well as county councillors Anne Gower and Tim Marks, in making presentations to the youngsters.

Overall winner of a copy of the latest book by Guy Bass was Kieran Chapman, right, from Haverhill. Library Manager Sanphra Willmott said 120 children attended the presentation ceremony, so many that two sessions had to be held to fit them all in. She said: "More children start and finish the game each year, but this year it has really shot up. About 54 per cent finished it within the six weeks, which is really good. Six weeks is a long time for them to be without structured education, so we try to encourage them to keep up with their literacy and reading, but in a very fun way."

I have been a player and conductor for more than 50 years and have given many illustrated talks on the history of brass bands to local history, church, social and fundraising groups and would be happy to give a talk to any group who may be interested. I live in Hoxne on the Norfolk/Suffolk border and am musical director of the Gislegham Silver Band, the oldest band in Suffolk. Thank you in anticipation.

Circle in call for helpers

OVER-50s can get out more and learn new things by joining a new group which is looking for members in Haverhill. Members have been signing up in Haverhill and the surrounding area to join Suffolk Circle – and the group now needs people who are interested in becoming helpers and sharing their time and skills with members. A helper can offer any skills that they have, that they either feel are being underused or just enjoy, in anything from painting and decorating, gardening and DIY to internet and email lessons, bookkeeping and driving. Damien Ribbans, head of operations, said: "We've heard again and again from people that they often want help but don't like to ask. At the same time there are lots of people out there with skills, interests or passions that they don't know how to share." In a spin over new health service

AN energetic spinning class has launched a new service which aims to help people across Suffolk live healthier lives.

Tim Roberts, director of Live Well Suffolk, Amanda Jones, assistant director of public health for NHS Suffolk and Zoe Newson, a Suffolk-based Paralympics 2012 hopeful, officially launched the service by testing out the exercise craze. They were given tips by Oliver Langford and Floyd Croll, community health coaches who will be based in the west of Suffolk.

Guests at the event enjoyed exercise and healthy cooking demonstrations as well as the opportunity to meet the team and find out about the service, which has been designed to help Suffolk's residents shape up and take practical steps towards a more healthy future. Its team of more than 30 employees provides information and healthy lifestyle services including stopping smoking and weight management and has dieticians to advise on healthy eating.

Mr Roberts said: "The team have worked very hard to get us to this point and making the service come alive. We are now looking forward to getting out into the local communities and helping people take the steps they need to live healthier lives.

We aren't here to pressure anyone, but to give those who ask for it health improvement programmes tailored to their needs."

The service is being run from Haverhill and other Suffolk towns, providing all-round support for the individual through locally based community health coaches, rather than tackling single issues in isolation.

During September the service is offering free tasters for a range of exercise classes to promote the importance of getting active. For more information call (01473) 22 92 92 or visit www.livewellsuffolk.org.uk.

STREET lights across Haverhill will begin to be switched off at midnight in four weeks' time – but the councillor responsible for the scheme is confident that it will not lead to an increase in crime.

Suffolk County Council is installing a new 'intelligent' lighting system at a cost of £2.5m and Cllr Guy McGregor, the council's portfolio holder for roads, transport and planning, estimated it would save at least £500,000 a year.

Many street lights on estates around Haverhill, although not those in the town centre, will be turned off between midnight and 5.30am from October 17. The change will be introduced in four stages, with the next phase from October 31, another from November 7 and the final ones from November 28.

Some concerns have already been raised in the town about the affect the lack of street lighting could have, with fears of an escalation of crime and disorder. However, Cllr McGregor said there had actually been a reduction in crime in other parts of the country where the scheme was introduced and at the first Suffolk trial in Needham Market.

Cllr McGregor said: "This is the latest cutting-edge technology, which will not only save us considerable amounts of money, but will also reduce our carbon footprint.

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

"It means lights can be dimmed rather than just switched off and we can almost provide a bespoke service to communities, so that if for example there was a fire or a street party in an area the lights could be switched back on. It will also mean that when a light is out, we are aware of it and able to deal with it much more quickly than with the old system, and it will also require fewer staff.

"Haverhill is a very significant and important town in Suffolk and we have spoken to the police, as well as making some slight adjustments to the scheme in response to local concerns. We will continue to monitor the scheme to make sure we meet the needs of all our residents, and our representatives in Haverhill will keep me up to date on the position in the town."

Anyone who has concerns about street lights being turned off can phone (01473) 264915/ 264067, visit www.suffolk.gov.uk/streetlighting or e-mail streetlighting@suffolk.gov.uk.

Growth hope for Little Acorns

BUDDING entrepreneurs can get a helping hand from a new scheme which was officially launched by West Suffolk MP Matthew Hancock.

The Little Acorns scheme, the brainchild of successful Haverhill businesswomen Jan Cavelle and Theresa Foddering, was unveiled at New Croft, home of Haverhill Rovers Football Club, on Friday.

Jan runs a successful furniture company, which she originally took over to save it from closure. Theresa runs the town centre ARevolution beauty and treatment centre, which won the business of the year award at this year's Haverhill Business awards.

Jan said: "Becoming an enterprise nation is the way forward out of the economic gloom and this scheme is designed to help Haverhill do exactly that. There is much to be proud of in the business world in Haverhill and we want to grow that from strength to strength and turn the town into a hive of entrepreneurship."

Theresa said: "There is something for everyone through Acorns. Anyone thinking about going into business for themselves should not miss it, but it is not just about start-ups – every business, however large or small, should find something of use in the scheme. It is about the business community working together as a whole."

The launch took the form of a small business fair and included free expert advice from a wide variety of sources, including Menta and Barclays.

Full details and application forms to the mentoring scheme can be found at www.enterprisingacorns.com.

Business boosts in the pipeline?

RETAINING business rates locally and decentralising power from central Government were two of the ideas which could benefit the business community, according to a council official.

Chris Bally, assistant director business development for Suffolk County Council, was guest speaker at the bestofhaverhill group's monthly business meeting, continuing the theme of 'Wanting the best for Haverhill'.

Mr Bally spoke about Suffolk County Council's current thinking on public services and the council's desire to develop new and innovative ways of working with businesses locally and countywide.

He explained how the council had faced a major upheaval over the last three months, with the appointment of Mark Bee as its new leader and the end of the controversial New Strategic Direction initiative because "it didn't connect with the people of Suffolk".

As well as talking about the Open Public Services White Paper, which describes decentralising power to the lowest appropriate level, Mr Bally discussed the consultation on business rate retention, encouraging the Haverhill business community to look at the proposals and leave their views on the Department for Communities and Local Government (CLG) website.

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Under the current system, business rates from Haverhill go to central Government and there is no direct relationship to what comes back to the area. The rationale behind retaining business rates in the local area was to provide an incentive for local councils to do more to stimulate business growth.

Elaine Carr, the owner of thebestofhaverhill said: "There are opportunities for businesses that will arise as a result of the decentralisation of services. The business community in Haverhill needs to ensure that we are fully aware of the opportunities and are proactive in our approach to winning these contracts in the future."

To find about more, visit www.thebestof.co.uk/haverhill.

The meeting was also attended by 12 students from Castle Manor Business and Enterprise College.

Scheme for young people celebrated

EMPLOYERS who have given young people the chance to take up apprenticeships or do work experience attended a lunch organised by Jobcentre Plus.

The Supporting Young

Haverhill scheme was launched in May and MP Matthew Hancock, who was at the earlier event, returned to join the lunch and celebrate its success.

Mr Hancock said: "Over the past decade many new businesses have been attracted to Haverhill.

"Supporting Young Haverhill is an excellent way of ensuring that young people have better access to jobs in the area."

34 years of animal magic!

OLD friends and new flocked to an animal shelter bearing gifts of food and bedding to help celebrate its 34th birthday.

Carol Harris, who has run the Jaybeth Animal Sanctuary at Barnardiston since it opened, thanked all the visitors, as well as friends and volunteers who made her open days at the weekend a real celebration. Greeting guests were Bliss, a six-week-old kitten which was found in the middle of a field at Castle Camps, Kelloggs the cockerel, who is one of around 90 but always the most vocal, Oinx the 310kg pig, plus ponies Dream and Chilli.

Carol said: "It was wonderful, we were so lucky with the weather and within two hours we had a steady stream of people, all bearing gifts. The atmosphere was fantastic and I could not have asked for a better 34th anniversary celebration."

"We also received £92 in donations on Saturday and £93 on Sunday, which will take a chunk off the vet's bill and help pay for infra-red heating during the winter. I would really like to thank everyone who has supported me."

Another open weekend will take place on November 5 and 6, from 2pm-4pm on both days.

BEFORE
Ruth Bruty weighed in at more than 18 stones

Smiles as the stones roll off

AFTER
Ruth lost more than half her body weight

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

SUPER slimmer Ruth Bruty is enjoying a whole new active life and shopping for size 10 clothes – after losing more than half her starting weight.

When Ruth, 49, attended her daughter Hannah's wedding last year, several guests said the bride's father had got himself a new wife. Ruth, who weighs less than half what she did two years ago, said she could not help but agree.

Her amazing weight loss, from 18 stone 11lbs in January 2000 to 8 stone 7lbs last week, has won her a place in the national finals of Slimming World's Woman of the Year competition next month.

Ruth said: "I have been dieting since I was 7 – it has been a lifelong battle for me. I had been to Slimming World before and lost some weight, but this time I was really focused. It is down to a lot of willpower and commitment, but also the support of my Slimming World class really helped a lot. When I won my place at the finals, the first thing I thought was that I could not wait to tell my class.

"I lost my mum in November 2008 and it had been a real struggle for about a year before that when she was ill. Then Hannah got engaged and when I saw pictures of myself at her party I was shocked to see how big I was. I was in a lot of pain in my legs and knees and I was often struggling to breathe. I had never done any exercise, I think I was just lazy and used my weight as an excuse.

"Now we can go on holiday to Centre Parcs and I can go swimming, I have got a bike and I did the Race for Life. My husband always said it did not matter to him what size I was, but he and my children have really supported me and are all proud of me."

Ruth celebrates her 30th wedding anniversary with husband Mick next year at their home in Lophams Close, Haverhill. Their children are Hannah, 23, and Ryan, 25.

Ruth attends the Haverhill Slimming World class run by Julie Collis, and her success helped Julie celebrate 17 years as a consultant. Two other members of the class also reached the district finals of the competition, Samantha Last, who lost 6 stones 12 lbs and Teresa Dale, who lost 7 stone 3lbs.

Ruth, along with Jacqueline Rhodes from St Neots, who lost 5 stone 1.5 lbs and Carol Hawkins from Wisbech, who lost 10 stones, will go forward to the national semi finals on Sunday, October 9, with a chance to be crowned Woman of the Year 2011 at the final in Birmingham on Saturday, November 12 and win a 14 night all inclusive holiday in Mexico or £3,000 cash.

Julie Collis said: "It was really nice to get Ruth through to the final in my 17th year. I have really enjoyed seeing so many people lose weight and become so much more confident."

Samuel Ward deserves its recognition

SAMUEL Ward has long been recognised as one of the region's finest schools, and this year's results serve to highlight this.

The GCSE results for Year 11 released this summer have broken records with pupils achieving the school's highest ever results:

■ 91 per cent of pupils

ADVERTISEMENT FEATURE

achieved five or more A*-C grades

■ 65 per cent achieved five or more A*-C grades with English, maths and science

■ More than 30 per cent of the year group achieved three or more A* or A grades

■ 75 per cent achieved an A*-

Outstanding: Students value being encouraged to do better.

C grade in English and over 70 per cent in maths

■ More than half achieved an A*-C grade in modern foreign language

■ More than 30 per cent achieved the English Bacc.

Head Teacher, Howard Lay, said: "These outstanding results will enable so many pupils to access A-level and university courses. They are way above the national average and achieved through hard work, commitment and outstanding teaching.

"Our students have achieved high results in traditional subjects rather than opting for the easier options which do not help them progress to A-level. I am confident that we will again be at the top of the Suffolk league table for value added outcomes."

Particularly strong results included these individuals:

Megan Beardmore from Clare 6 A*s and 4 As

Andrew Barrett-Sprot from Wickhambrook 5 A*s and 3 Bs

Record breakers: Samuel Ward bettered its own previous record exam haul this year.

Rebecca Cruz from Haverhill 2 A*s and 7 As

Ronald Dadds from Haverhill 4 A*s and 4 As

Adam Peck from Clare 3 A*s and 5 As

Our special little boy

Loving son: doctors believe Kaiden has an incredibly rare condition – so rare, they have yet to pinpoint it.

Pictures: Warren Gunn 767858

Kaiden Davey, at 7, can't walk or talk, needs help to eat and drink, sleeps as little as two hours a night and suffers regular violet seizures. Alice Ryan talks to his parents.

KAIDEN Davey is a very happy little boy. Sitting on the sofa, clapping his hands and waving his feet, he's all smiles and giggles. His good humour is contagious: when he laughs, you can't help but laugh with him.

"When he's well, he's like this all the time: constantly smiling and laughing to himself," says Lina, Kaiden's mum. "People often ask if I feel angry about having a disabled son, but I don't. In fact, I feel blessed.

"The way we see it, Kaiden is special. Yes, he has a strangeness about him, but I think that's quite lovely. And he's such a loving child.

"You know he's had a nice day if, when we collect him, he takes your face in his hands and sort of squeezes your cheeks. I think it's his way of saying 'Thank you'..."

At seven years old, Kaiden can't walk or talk. He's still in nappies and needs help to eat and drink. And he has complex health problems: diagnosed with severe epilepsy and registering on the autistic spectrum, doctors believe he has an incredibly rare condition – so rare, they have yet to pinpoint it.

"At his worst, he was having a major seizure every half an hour," explains dad Kevin. "He'd vomit violently every time, so we'd just get cleaned up and he'd go into another seizure. "Seeing his little body go through all that – he goes completely blue and convulses – is hard to describe..."

"There was a time when we thought Kaiden would never be able to do anything other than lie on his back. But he now makes a lot more eye contact, he can sit up, he can shuffle around on his bum, he can make noises to let you know when he wants something.

"He's come a long way and we're really proud of him."

Kaiden's health problems date right back to his birth, at five weeks premature, in January, 2004.

Lina, who has two grown-up children – Stacey, 23, and Louis, 21 – from a previous relationship, explains that Kaiden was a much-wanted baby.

"Kevin and I got together when Louis was about 2½. We really wanted to have a child together and I had several miscarriages before Kaiden, so when he arrived he was extra-special, in a way. Having had two babies before, I did notice that Kaiden moved oddly inside me; that something was different, but I couldn't quite put my finger on it."

The Daveys, who live in Fulbourn, were on a shopping trip to Ikea when Lina's waters broke. Rushed into hospital, doctors managed to stave off full labour for three days – but then Kaiden arrived five weeks premature, weighing in at 5lb 6oz.

Mum and baby spent the next 10 days in special care. Although medics reassured Lina that, despite his being prem, all was well with Kaiden, she remembers feeling very anxious.

"I tried to feed him and he just wouldn't latch on. Instead he'd make this yapping noise and shake his head, like he was angry.

"I'd look around the ward and see babies born earlier than him making better progress. Eventually I broke down and cried.

"A nurse came to sit with me and said the problems were most likely down to him being premature. I'd never had a prem baby before, so I didn't know what to expect."

For the first two weeks after being sent home, Kaiden did nothing but sleep. But then he started screaming; he would literally yell round the clock, all through the night.

"No, we had no sleep," admits Lina, 40, with a wry smile. "But we haven't had much sleep ever since, to be honest. You just learn to cope."

Having not had a fit for a week or so, Kaiden had a cluster of seizures which were ongoing for two days inbetween moments of raging behaviour and self harming. After five big ones in a row he went into Addenbrooke's and had to be sedated.

"Knowing the nurses were there, and that he was under sedation, I actually managed to sleep for a full eight hours – I totally relaxed."

Kaiden's development during his first year was very slow. "Every time we raised a concern, it was put down to him being premature," remembers Kevin. "But when he had his eight-month check we said we wanted to be referred."

Given an appointment at the Child Development Centre, Kaiden never made it – because two weeks before the assessment, he had his first major epileptic seizure.

"We'd been out for the day," remembers Lina. "At that stage, he was totally silent most of the time: he liked to lie on his play mat and look up at this chandelier we had, flapping his arms and legs. I put him down on the floor and he started making this noise. My first thought was 'Oh good!' – then I turned round and saw him. He was having a full seizure; he was completely blue."

Blue-lighted to Addenbrooke's, doctors ran some tests and then allowed Kaiden home. But he had a second fit the next day, then a third the day after that. Subsequently admitted to hospital, Kaiden had a barrage of tests, including a painful lumbar puncture. Although epilepsy was swiftly diagnosed, the cause could not be established.

Discharged after two weeks, Kaiden was prescribed anti-seizure medication.

"Unfortunately it didn't make any difference: it got to the point where he was racking up 50 major seizures a day," says Kevin. "Then he went on to stronger medication, which helped with the big seizures – but he was having hundreds of little ones, including absences where he just goes blank."

Kaiden also has serious issues with his digestion. Possibly connected to his epilepsy, he suffers with constipation so severe it once blocked his entire system – so faeces started backing up and coming out of his gastronomy tube.

"He used to hate being touched, even having his hands held or putting his feet on the floor. And he'd lie sort of crumpled up. What we didn't realise was that his system was totally blocked up," Lina explains.

"He was given an adult enema and the poo was pouring out of him for two and a half hours."

"Sometimes he'll suddenly go in the night and we get up to find him and his bed covered in it," adds Kevin, 37. "He's on all kinds of laxative medication, but the consultant says he's the most constipated boy he's ever seen."

Even now, Kaiden only sleeps for about two or three hours a night. He is very wakeful and active all night long and, prone to banging his head, has to sleep in a specially-made cot bed, padded on every side.

But, despite all his trials, there are many sources of happiness in Kaiden's life – not least going to school. A pupil at Granta, the school for children with special needs in Linton, he has loved it from day one.

"The way the staff talk about him is so lovely. He's an affectionate boy and he's always cuddling the teaching assistants," adds Lina.

Kaiden also enjoys being out and about in the fresh air. Thanks to staff at Thriplow-based agricultural company KWS – who heard about Kaiden through a family friend – the Daveys now have a specially adapted bike: fitted with a state-of-the-art ChildPod at the front, it means Kaiden can now enjoy going for a bike ride.

KWS raised some £2,000 to fund the bike, by running a bake sale and a sponsored tractor pull during the Open Farm Sunday celebrations at Russell Smith Farms in Duxford this summer.

"It's brilliant," says Kevin,

"and we are so grateful to everyone who helped raise the money. To see Kaiden's smile when he can feel the wind on his face is lovely."

The Daveys admit that there have been some low moments. "You get some funny reactions from people," admits Lina. "Once an old man came up to me in the supermarket and said 'What's WRONG with your son?'. I opened my mouth to reply – we don't mind people asking about Kaiden: we're not embarrassed by him, we're actually quite proud – and he walked off. I followed him and said 'Excuse me, but you asked a question – aren't you at least going to listen to the answer?' And he was really rude to me."

"At the other end of the spectrum, you get the lovely people. Another elderly gentleman stopped me in Tesco and said 'I hope you don't mind me talking to you – I often see you in here with your son and I just wanted to say I think you're a lovely mum'. I was very touched by that."

"I do try not to think about the future," admits Kevin. "Generally we cope really well, but if I stop and think about what the future holds it does pull me down for a while."

"When you leave your kids in the world you expect them to be grown up, looking after themselves, maybe having kids of their own. But we know we're going to have to leave Kaiden in the hands of other people – that's the worst thing."

Doctors still can't get to the bottom of Kaiden's condition. Samples of his DNA have been sent to geneticists in Paris, Zurich – the world over. But nobody can establish exactly what's wrong.

"We do get a little bit sad sometimes," admits Lina. "And there are still days when I feel very tired. But I don't let it get to me: there's no point. I know it's going to be like this for the rest of my life, so I've got to get on and deal with it. And when I see Kaiden as he is now – so happy he's laughing out loud – it makes it all feel worthwhile."

THERE'S something magical about office parties – whether it's seeing your boss cut loose on the dance floor, or having a giggle with your friends over a mulled wine (or two) – it's always a pleasure to relax with your co-workers and celebrate a year's hard work.

It might seem like a long slog in the office until Christmas, but most pubs, hotels and restaurants are already starting to take festive bookings, so don't leave bookings until the last moment for the best party venues, or the tastiest meals with your friends and family.

Most families struggle to get everyone sat around the dinner table together, but booking ahead for a tempting festive meal is a great excuse to spend time with the ones you love.

Eating as a family, whether at home or out at a restaurant, has been proven to have numerous benefits for everyone:

■ Kids Eat Better. With the increasing rate of childhood obesity and lack of fitness, experts in children's health warn us to avoid a diet of junk food, eaten too quickly.

Too often, when families are running to sports matches, dance classes, or piano lessons, dinner is picked up on the wing and eaten in the car. Taking time to eat slowly and savour your meal is important both children's healthy digestion and so they can recognise when they are full.

■ Parents Eat Better. If it is good for the kids, it is good for us. Sitting down without the telly on is great for waistlines, as you will be concentrating on the flavours of your meal, and remembering to chew properly.

■ Time Management. One of the challenges parents often have is balancing the demands on their time. Eating a meal with the family is one of those high leverage activities – you can spend time with your family and eat a meal at the same time. This is one of life's most enjoyable forms of multi-tasking, and your kids will thank you for it.

■ Daily Check-Ins. Among the many difficulties of moving into the teenage years is that kids tend to spend less time at home. Having the family together for at least one mealtime each day gives parents and teens a chance to connect they might not otherwise have.

■ Learning Good Manners. Good table manners are all too rare these days, and part of the reason for this is families eating separately from their children. At the family table, you can teach kids how to behave properly, as well as teaching valuable social and conversational skills. All that, and you get to eat pudding – what's not to like?

So you know the benefits of eating together, but you're no Nigella in the kitchen? Why not take the hassle out of dinner and treat them to a meal out. With numerous restaurants offering special Christmas menus with tender turkey, crisp roast potatoes and plenty of fresh vegetables, there's never been a better time to get booking.

Point of view: the winning entry, which was taken last autumn at Stourhead National Trust, in Wiltshire, by Haverhill amateur photographer Brian Peters.

Stunning shot takes pride of place in hospice photo contest

MORE than 50 entries were submitted to a photographic competition to boost the funds of a hospice.

The winner was keen amateur photographer Brian Peters, of Haverhill, with his autumnal photograph taken at Stourhead National Trust, in Wiltshire, last year.

The Gallery of Lower Downs Slade, Haverhill, attracted more than 50 entries to the competition in aid of St Nicholas Hospice Care, which asked for uplifting, beautiful or peaceful pictures suitable for the walls of the hospice.

David Doughty, of The Gallery, said: "I was very impressed with the level of the entries – this made choosing the winner extremely difficult."

Brian, who has never won a photographic competition, said he was thrilled his picture was chosen. His entry will be enlarged, framed and presented to the hospice, while he will also receive a framed 20in by 16in enlargement.

Everyone who entered was asked to pay a £2.50 entry fee – but some donated more and the competition raised £260.

The competition was held as part of the Hospice's Towergate Accumulator Challenge, in which 49 businesses pledged to turn a £50 stake, donated by sponsors Towergate Risk Solutions, into as much cash as possible for St Nicholas Hospice Care.

The challenge was launched in June and next Thursday the winners will be announced.

Abby Mayes, hospice corporate fundraiser, said: "This year many businesses are in with a chance of claiming the top prize – but top dog will be kept a closely-guarded secret until the presentation evening."

"I'm pleased The Gallery's photographic competition was so well supported and that such a beautiful picture was selected to win."

Acoustic aces take the stage

THREE of the top names on the British folk and guitar scene are joining forces to perform as The Acoustic Gathering in Haverhill.

The Arts Centre will host Ray Jackson from Lindisfarne, Doug Morter, (The Albion Band and Magna Carta) and Jerry Donahue (Fairport Convention, Fotheringay) on Sunday, October 9.

The band, pictured, promise to 'go back to basics', performing 'great hits and long-forgotten ditties', in an acoustic format.

The Acoustic Gathering is a spin-off of The Gathering Britannia, the folk rock 'super-group' that also includes Rich Kemp of Steeleye Span, Clive Bunker of Jethro Tull and Kristina Donahue of Fairport Convention.

Ray Jackson, the voice of Lindisfarne, is famous for hits such as Lady Eleanor, Meet Me On The Corner and Run For Home, and for his original style on both mouth organ and mandolin. Ray is also well known for his contribution to the albums of, amongst others, Rod Stewart on Every Picture Tells a Story (Maggie May and Mandolin Wind).

Jerry Donahue, the 'guitarists' guitarist', or as the late, great Danny Gatton christened him, 'the string-bending king of the planet', has also played on the records of many other well-known acts including Gerry Rafferty, The Proclaimers, Joan Armatrading, Chris Rea and the Beach Boys.

Doug Morter was also founder member of Hunter Muskett, The Backroom Boys and Then Came The Wheel, as well as side man to Richard Digance, Maddy Prior and Michael Chapman. He has been at the heart of the folk rock movement since 1969.

The trio will be performing some of the Lindisfarne classics, material from The Gathering, their remixed CD, and new material from their individual repertoires.

Tickets for the show, which starts at 8pm, are £15.00 and available from the Box Office 01440 714140 or www.haverhillartscentre.co.uk.

THE 22nd Haverhill Sinfonia Soloist Competition will take place on Saturday at Haverhill Arts Centre from 9.30am to 8.30pm.

There are 35 prizes and concert engagements to the value of £8,075 to be won. Categories are brass, piano, singers, strings (including guitar and harp) and woodwind. The adjudicating panel will be Kevin Hill MBC (music director, Haverhill Sinfonia and Arnold Sinfonia), Stephen Bryant (leader BBC Symphony Orchestra), Timothy Lines (professor of clarinet at the Royal College of Music and Royal Academy of Music) and Colin Stone (professor of piano at the Royal Academy of Music and Royal Northern College of Music, and artistic director of the LMT Chamber Ensemble).

Monkey Nuts Comedy Club on Sunday has a line-up of Dave Twentyman, rising star of north west comedy, Tim Clark, one of the brightest lights on the comedy scene, and Miles Jupp, who although well known as Archie in the children's television series Balamory also guests on Have I Got News For You and 8 Out Of 10 Cats. The fun begins at 8pm.

HEY, MISTER DJ: Huw Stephens takes to the decks on Saturday at Ballare as part of the Propaganda gig.

Indie in the groove

FOR indie fans in Cambridge, pickings are pretty slim when it comes to deciding where to go for a decent night out. Your luck may be on the turn, however, thanks to the launch of a new club night at the newly-expanded Ballare.

From September 17, the club – fondly known as Cindies, and not, up till now, generally associated with the indie scene – will be hosting Propaganda, bringing music fans the best in cutting-edge new tracks and anthemic classics from resident and guest DJs.

Starting in a 200-capacity club in Bristol, Propaganda has gone truly global, filling clubs across the UK, Ireland and Australia.

To celebrate its Cambridge launch,

Propaganda has lined up some special guest DJs. The Vaccines will kick off proceedings with a DJ set on opening night, then Radio 1's Huw Stephens will take to the decks on Saturday.

The Guide caught up with Huw to find out more about what we can expect from his indie set.

Huw, what would you say is your ultimate Propaganda floor-filler track?

Blur's Song 2. An obvious classic of course, but a thrilling tune whichever way you look at it.

What gets you on the dancefloor?

A bit of booze and some Pulp. If you could hit the dancefloor with anyone, alive or dead, real or fictional, who would it be and why?

I'd like to dance with Andre 3000 from Outkast on one side, Kylie on the other. I'd be happy with that. I'm not really a dancer though I must admit. Unless it's at a wedding. Or Propaganda – when no one's looking.

What else are you up to at the moment?

My Radio 1 show goes out Wednesday nights at midnight, with loads of the best new music on it. I'm on at the weekends too, 1pm-4pm, playing tunes and seeing what folks are up to on their days off. Swn Festival is coming up on October 20-23 in Cardiff with 180 bands playing. And I'm moving flat too.

What's your best DJing anecdote?

Getting 60,000 people to sing along with The Proclaimers' I'm Gonna Be (500 Miles) on the Reading main stage before Guns n Roses was a special moment!

■ Propaganda Cambridge, Ballare, Lion Yard, Cambridge. Every Saturday 10pm - 3am. Admission is £5 (£4 students and before 11.30pm).

Shakespeare – with strings attached

STAR-CROSSED: Romeo and Juliet at The Junction.

Picture LiquidPhoto.co.uk

MUSIC, magic, performers and puppets come together to give new life to the age-old story of Romeo and Juliet, showing at The Junction next week.

Focusing heavily on creative theatre making, imagination and vivid theatrical storytelling, Night Light Theatre Company set out to inspire, excite and entertain in this unique interpretation, which has a running time of just 75 minutes.

Even so, over the last two years the company has worked to try to make every element of the show unique and full of detail.

Every character over the age of 20 is portrayed by a puppet, appearing and interacting with the human cast throughout. Guns and knives are replaced by magical abilities, and light is used to represent the blinding power of rage.

Shakespeare's tale of lovers caught up in a bitter feud was one of his first published plays and has spawned many an adaptation, from operas to films. Today it stands alongside Hamlet as one of Shakespeare's most performed plays.

■ Romeo and Juliet, The Junction, until September 28 at 8pm. Tickets are £12 (£8 concessions) from (01223) 511511 / www.junction.co.uk.

The big film

WARRIOR certificate 12A 139m

TWO brothers go to war against each other in Gavin O'Connor's brutal story of redemption and self-loathing. Bone-crunching skirmishes become a vibrant backdrop to the potential reconciliation of the estranged siblings, one battling for his country and the other for his family. Warrior puts these two male archetypes – the valiant soldier and the selfless father – in the fighting ring and witnesses the emotional fallout as the protagonists deal with their tortured pasts in the present day. Marine Tommy Conlon (Tom Hardy) arrives home unexpectedly after 14 years of service, surprising his father Paddy (Nick Nolte), who has turned to religion to help him beat the bottle. Tommy asks his old man to train him for Sparta, a televised mixed martial arts fighting competition with the biggest purse in the sport's history. Paddy agrees, desperate to rebuild bridges. However, the former marine isn't interested in playing happy families and Tommy chooses to fight under his mother's maiden name of Riordan to conceal the connection. Meanwhile, Paddy's other son Brendan

(Joel Edgerton) is struggling to make ends meet as a schoolteacher. The bank is threatening to take away his home so Brendan secretly fights in the backrooms of bars for money, keeping it a secret from his wife Tess (Jennifer Morrison). Once the school learns of Brendan's extra-curricular activities the headmaster suspends him and the teacher's entire future rests on winning Sparta, putting him on a collision course with his hulking sibling. Warrior talks tough and flexes its muscles impressively in the bruising fight sequences, but the script punches well below its class. Characterisation is featherweight and Hardy and Edgerton, who have both bulked up for the roles, aren't given the material to deliver knockout performances. Nolte bares his soul in his few scenes and Morrison is similarly short-changed. There is a clear narrative bias towards one of the brothers, making the bone-crunching histrionics of the final bouts a foregone conclusion before anyone has stepped into the ring. Consequently, there is no dramatic tension and when screenwriters O'Connor, Anthony Tambakis and Cliff Dorfman do orchestrate one big reveal it turns out to be completely redundant, having no impact whatsoever on the fates of the central players. The second reveal provides unintentional hilarity when the media unearth the truth at a critical juncture. Running time is excessive – the four editors should have thrown in the towel at least 20 minutes earlier.

Growing for grown-ups

by Hannah Stephenson

TV gardening guru Alan Titchmarsh is calling on all schools to get their grown-ups growing as part of a nationwide event organised by the Royal Horticultural Society, to be held across October.

Get Your Grown-ups Growing forms part of the RHS's Campaign for School Gardening, supported by Waitrose – a national initiative that encourages schools to create gardens, teach the skills of growing and in turn enable their pupils to learn outside the classroom.

Each October schools are invited to hold a Grown-ups Growing event so they can involve their local community to help develop the school garden. Grandparents, parents, carers and friends are invited to help.

Alan, leading supporter of the RHS campaign, explains: "It is no secret that school was never my favourite place and my interests lay outside the classroom, often in the allotment with my grandfather. But today it's a very different world.

"The fact that schools have really

MANY HANDS:
Alan Titchmarsh wants schools to make the most of chances to grow their own food.

cottoned on to the benefits of gardening with their pupils is fantastic news, especially for children who are looking for different ways to learn, like I was.

"If we can encourage parents and the wider community to get involved with their school garden, then who knows, we might end up with a green revolution both at home and at school."

Activities suggested for event organisers include tool swaps, taste tests of produce grown in schools or alternatively locally-grown fruit and veg, a range of gardening classes and even a mini garden show.

Schools with gardens can encourage adults in the community to help develop new areas such as a wildlife garden or help construct raised beds. A Get Your Grown-ups Growing event can also see adults passing on their gardening experience to children by helping them sow seeds, plant trees and assist in weeding. For schools without gardens it's the ideal opportunity to involve adults in the community from the beginning to establish some form of gardening facility in the school.

For both types of schools the event can even be used to raise funds through plant sales and raffles.

Entering its third year, Get Your Grown-ups Growing has developed from a small pilot project based in Yorkshire to a national success involving 1,000 schools. Of the schools that held an event last year, 74 per cent said it had increased their children's interest in gardening, while more than half reported an increase in adult support and adult interest in gardening.

Jacky Chave, RHS strategic schools manager, says: "Having a school garden is a fantastic asset for teachers and pupils as it provides a multitude of learning opportunities, but we know it can take a lot of hard work to maintain.

"By involving parents and other local adults, through an event like Get Your Grown-ups Growing, we hope that school gardens will be looked after all year round and enthusiasm for gardening and growing will spread beyond the school gates and into children's homes."

The RHS hopes to see 2,000 schools register for this year's Get Your Grown-ups Growing event, double last year's figure. All registered schools will be entered into a free prize draw to win garden tools and materials.

To register, schools must sign up to the RHS Campaign for School Gardening via www.rhs.org.uk/gvgg and click on the Get Your Grown-ups Growing button on the home page.

Schools which register will receive a free support pack including seeds, event ideas, information templates, stickers and more. Each school can choose any date in October to hold its event and organise activities to suit its requirements.

YOUR GUIDE TO MOVING HOME

1 Moving home can be a complicated business and, in the hectic run to the big day, it is all too easy to forget something vital. The Property News offers their readers this handy checklist that should help avoid major pitfalls. We suggest you tick off the items as you deal with them...

WITH FOUR WEEKS TO GO:

- ☐ Get estimates from removal companies, checking that comprehensive insurance cover is available against damage or loss. Is there a packing and unpacking service? Confirm the date of your move with the firm you have chosen.
- ☐ Check on your home contents insurance policies to ensure that you are covered for the move, and covered at your new address.
- ☐ Make arrangements for your gas and electricity meters (plus water meters where relevant) to be read and all your appliances to be disconnected on the day of your move.
- ☐ Arrange to take over gas and electricity at your new address, and make sure that all appliances will be properly fitted, plumbed or connected.
- ☐ Notify British Telecom and ask them to make the necessary arrangements for a final account at your present address, and for taking over or installing telephone facilities at your new home.
- ☐ Arrange for change of address cards to be printed.

WITH TWO WEEKS TO GO:

- ☐ Confirm all arrangements, times etc, for meter readings, disconnections and reconnections, with authorities and with your buyer and seller.
- ☐ Make sure you have a good stock of packing materials, including sturdy boxes and plenty of string and sticky tape.
- ☐ Begin to throw out unwanted items from attics, wardrobes. What you really don't want you may as well dump now, or send to charity. It's a great time for a good sort out!

WITH ONE WEEK TO GO:

- ☐ Send off change of address cards.
- ☐ Arrange and pay for automatic redirection of your mail by the Post Office.
- ☐ Cancel and pay up accounts for routine delivery services such as milk, groceries, fuel and your Cambridge Evening News. Re-organise these deliveries for your new address.
- ☐ Defrost refrigerators in preparation for move and, if you are moving a freezer and its contents, turn it up to maximum for a couple of days before you move.

WITH ONE DAY TO GO:

- ☐ Complete your packing except for those items you are likely to need overnight, and prepare a picnic for moving day.
- ☐ Have a large enough cash 'float' available to deal with unexpected expenses, and make sure you have collected documents and valuables together in a safe place.
- ☐ Cover carpets which are being left behind, so as to minimise damage during furniture removal.
- ☐ Check through previous lists to make sure nothing has been overlooked, then enjoy a worry-free early night!

2 ON MOVING DAY:

- ☐ Strip beds and pack bedding and nightclothes.
- ☐ Pack items for washing/toiletries.
- ☐ Take down curtains.
- ☐ Take up rugs, carpets, floor coverings, as required.
- ☐ Dismantle any light fittings etc., not included in the sale.
- ☐ Turn off electric appliances.
- ☐ Disconnect cooker.
- ☐ Turn off boiler/central heating.
- ☐ Turn off water.
- ☐ Read gas meter.
- ☐ Read electricity meter.
- ☐ Secure all windows.
- ☐ Lock all doors.
- ☐ Leave key as arranged with new owners.
- ☐ On arrival at your new home, unpack slowly and methodically so that you can check for loss or damage.

Expansion leads the way forward for CXG Property Services

Due to the expansion of both CXG's Estate and Letting Agency, Andy Pantling the CXG Agency Manager has had to recruit a new sales negotiator James Cann.

We asked Andy why he believed CXG were doing so well during these difficult economic times. Andy said this was not only down to our competitive fees, which he is confident are the cheapest in town, but is also as a result of the excellent customer service which we offer our clients. So James is not only going to enable me to manage the business we already have, he will also be able to help me get our message across that CXG believe we offer the best value of all the agents in town. I look forward to working with James and promise that if people give us the opportunity we will both do our utmost so meet their expectations.

Andy would also like to thank everybody that has written with such kind comments about him and the company and hopes that with James' help the company can continue to grow without compromising its service level.

Kia's used scheme is the best of all

Top award for Korean firm

KIA'S Approved Used Car Scheme has been recognised as the best in the industry having been crowned Used Car Scheme of the Year in the Auto Express Used Car Awards 2011 which were announced last week.

Auto Express praised Kia for going above and beyond normal approved used programmes with a number of customer benefits including its industry-leading seven-year warranty that is fully transferable to subsequent owners.

Approved Used Kias don't just get the balance of their manufacturer warranty. Instead, the warranty is topped back up to the full seven years meaning that an Approved Used Kia gets the same warranty as a brand new Kia.

It wasn't just the warranty that impressed them though. Explaining their decision, Auto Express commented: "Plus, you get 60 days or 1,000 miles in which to change your mind. Add to this two years of breakdown cover, seven days' free drive-away insurance and a useful online car locator, and you have a cracking approved scheme."

Commenting on the award, John Hargreaves, Kia UK's head of vehicle remarketing, said: "When we launched our Approved Used Car Scheme we set out to ensure it really did represent the best possible deal for customers so we're obviously very proud that this has been recognised by Auto Express with this award.

"Resetting our pioneering seven-year warranty back to new when you buy an Approved Used Kia really differentiates us from other schemes – it means that a Kia could be under warranty for some eight and a half years in total. We believe this shows that our high level of confidence in the product isn't just limited to when a car is new.

"The strength of our Approved Used Car Scheme is also a key factor in the strong residual values we're achieving across our range," added Hargreaves.

Vehicles sold under Kia's Approved Used Car Scheme are up to 18 months old, with up to 18,000 miles, and come with the following benefits:

- Warranty restored to new – seven years or 100,000 miles.
- Two years European-wide Roadside Assistance
- Seven day drive-away insurance
- 60 day/1,000 mile customer exchange programme
- 88-point vehicle inspection
- Service history to manufacturer requirements
- Provenance and mileage verification check

Further information about Kia's Approved Used Car Scheme, along with details about how to find an approved used Kia in your local area, go to www.kia.co.uk or call EMG on 0845 126 4859.

How Chevrolet is keeping the city's film festival on the road

RUNNING until Sunday at the Arts Picturehouse cinema and across Cambridge city centre, the 31st Cambridge Film Festival showcases independent films from all over the world, and features new films, special guests and exciting events to suit film lovers of all ages.

Cambridge Chevrolet has loaned the festival team a Chevrolet Spark 1.0LS in Carbon Flash Black with a Sports Tag Kit for the duration of the event, to help them organise festival events around the city. The Spark 1.0LS has been decorated with the 'Cambridge Film Festival' logo.

This year's festival has received a record number of film submissions, including UK and World premieres, special seasons and new films from every corner of the globe. Feature highlights this year include the much anticipated film version of 'Tinker, Tailor, Soldier, Spy', Nicolas Winding Refn's highly acclaimed action film 'Drive' starring Ryan Gosling, and Woody Allen's 'Midnight in Paris'.

Great Spark: Livery on side of Chevy for film festival.

Luke Gordon, franchise manager at Cambridge Chevrolet, said: "The Cambridge Film Festival is the third longest running independent film festival in the UK and as a company we have supported it for many years. This year is no different and we are very proud to be sponsors as well as offer one of our Sparks to help out with the different events going on all over the city."

Further information is available at www.cambridgefilmfestival.org.uk.

Performance treats: The Ford Focus ST, left and the Fiesta ST are part of a new breed of Sport Technologies wearing the Blue Oval badge.

Are the Focus and Fiesta the sexieST Fords so far?

Ford has showcased its vision to take its ST performance family around the world with the surprise reveal of an exciting new Fiesta ST Concept alongside the production debut of the all-new Focus ST.

Ford's global performance vehicle strategy is accelerating, promising a new era for driving enthusiasts around the world with the expansion of its ST – Sport Technologies – range.

The production-ready Focus ST was revealed at the 2011 Frankfurt Motor Show as Ford's first performance vehicle to be sold into more than 40 markets around the world, including the USA, Canada, Mexico, South Africa, Australia, New Zealand and 15 European countries. Its launch kicks off a new era for enthusiasts while the exciting reveal of the Fiesta ST Concept also highlights Ford's promise for even more to come on the performance front. Ford ST models will share key physical similarities in areas such as colours and exterior styling, as well as interior styling and driver-orientated interior features.

The DNA also defines performance levels, not only in the handling characteristics but in the engine outputs too. For ST models, this DNA profile means a noticeable power increase over the existing model's engine line-up.

The muscular and sporty, Fiesta ST Concept is inspired by the Ford Fiesta WRC. It features a dynamic sports chassis and a high performance powertrain featuring a 1.6-litre Ford EcoBoost engine, capable of delivering impressive fuel economy.

Target performance levels for the Fiesta ST Concept are 176bhp of power output and 240Nm of torque, enough to propel it from 0-60mph in less than 7 seconds. A top speed exceeding 125mph is targeted.

The advanced design of the turbocharged, 4-cylinder Ford EcoBoost engine – connected to a 6-speed manual transmission – means the Fiesta ST Concept is forecast to deliver CO2 emissions of less than 140g/km.

A global Fiesta ST would also extend the proud, 35-year history of delivering high performance Fiestas in Europe, including the Fiesta XR2 and XR2i, RS Turbo and the more recent first generation Fiesta ST.

Leading the strategy is Jost

Capito, Ford's director of global performance vehicles and motorsport development.

"With the Focus ST and the Fiesta ST, enthusiasts will immediately understand what a Ford ST model promises and what each model shares in terms of balanced performance feel, style and driver features," Capito said. "We've developed both vehicles from the same DNA. They are born performers that know how to make drivers smile."

All-new CX-5 inspired by cheetah

MAZDA celebrated the world premiere of its all-new Mazda CX-5 compact crossover SUV at the Frankfurt Motor Show on Tuesday.

The CX-5 is the first of a new generation of Mazda products that will adopt the full range of Mazda's breakthrough SkyActiv Technology and the new design theme, 'KODO – Soul of Motion'.

Mazda CX-5 will go on sale in the UK next year, featuring all-new petrol and diesel engines, all-new manual and automatic transmissions, plus an all-new bodyshell, new suspension and a choice of two- or four-wheel drive – evolving Mazda's hallmark fun-to-drive attributes to a new and higher level.

The 4.5-metre long CX-5's exterior design features bold styling – inspired by the rapid acceleration and turning achieved by animals like the cheetah – that simultaneously expresses SUV-like solidity and functionality with Mazda's characteristic sense of vitality and agility.

Mazda CX-5 will be one of the lightest and most aerodynamic vehicles in its class (Cd 0.33), which contributes to its outstanding fuel economy and low CO2 emissions. Mazda's engineers have focused on achieving exceptional environmental performance for a compact SUV. Each engine has a record-breaking compression ratio of 14:1 for ideal efficiency and each will feature Mazda's fuel saving 'i-stop' system, now with a faster-reacting control system.

The engine line-up for CX-5 will include Mazda's SkyActiv 2.0 direct-injection petrol engine (165ps/210Nm) and its SkyActiv-D 2.2 diesel engine with a two-stage turbocharger available with two outputs 148bhp/380Nm and 172bhp/420Nm.

Targeted fuel consumption and CO2 emissions for the CX-5 models with front-wheel drive and manual transmission are 47.1mpg/139g/km (petrol) and 62.8mpg/119g/km for the 150ps diesel. The diesel engines meet Euro 6 emissions standards without the need for an expensive NOx after-treatment system.

Also making its European premiere alongside the CX-5 on Mazda's stand at Frankfurt Show was the new upgraded version of Mazda's best-selling model, the Mazda3.

Avoiding your MOT only leads to problems later on

NEW research reveals that a third (34 per cent) of drivers don't book their MOT in advance, and as a result are in danger of being caught out when their MOT expires.

In addition to the motorists who forget their MOT expiry date, there are 1.1 million car owners who are choosing not to get their car's MOT renewed on the due date.

With money tight, and motorists looking to stretch their budgets as far as possible, these drivers say that they will either wait until they are required to show their MOT certificate to renew it, or are letting time elapse to maximise the longevity of the new test.

However, while some drivers may feel the MOT is an inconvenience, the test is crucial to road safety.

A massive 40 per cent of all cars fail their annual MOT, with an average vehicle failing the test on more than three issues.

The five most common reasons for failure are: lighting and signalling defects; suspension defects; defective brakes; illegal tyres and impaired driver's view of the road.

David White, customer services director at Kwik Fit, said: "If car owners are used to their car regularly passing the MOT with no problems, they may view an MOT simply as a piece of paper they need in order to get their car taxed.

"However, statistics show that the test plays a vital role in identifying defects on a car that render it unroadworthy and unsafe."

Lambert's the ace for Wrattling

Arbury Aces 0 West Wrattling 3

Cambridge and District Colts League, under-15A

EARLE Lambert struck twice to help Wrattling record something of a shock result against last season's A division champions and Team of the Year.

He rounded off a neat move to open the scoring and then thumped a swerving right-footed drive into the corner of the net to give Wrattling a deserved lead. And, in blazing sunshine, Scott Ankers set up Lewis Massie for the third to round off a dominant team performance.

Kedington 6 Waterbeach 2

Cambridge and District Colts League, under-14

KEDINGTON launched themselves into the new season with a dominant performance against Waterbeach.

Jack Trowbridge opened the scoring, firing home Ty Alleyne's neat pass, and skipper Jason Moore doubled it when he headed in Leon Bailey's corner.

Alleyne made it 3-0, rounding off a move started by Aaron Thorne, and although Waterbeach pulled one back, Kedington finished the half three goals ahead when Trowbridge added his second.

Waterbeach pulled a goal back and, although Conor Rankin fired in the visitors' fifth, the home side were prevented from making it 5-3 by Jack Davis' superb penalty save.

Ellis Wiffen finished the scoring, volleying home after Leon Bailey free kick rebounded off the bar.

Haverhill Rov 5 Woodbridge Tn 1 Eastern Junior Alliance, under-14 TOMMY Mila scored twice as the young Rovers entertained a decent crowd at the New Croft with an impressive display.

Having created several early chances, the home side eventually took the lead from the penalty spot, Niall Durning converting after Michael Johnson was brought down in a clumsy challenge.

Mila made sure Rovers' domination was worth a two-goal lead at the break and he added another soon after the restart.

Woodbridge pulled a goal back but hopes of a comeback were snuffed out when Johnson burst on to Rhys Shulver's pass to make it 4-1 and Chidera Nkem-Paul wrapped it up by pouncing on a cross to slot in.

West Wrattling 10 Gt Bardfield 0 Cambs Mini League, under-10A WEST Wrattling launched into the season in style against Great Bardfield.

Johnson struck four times and Lisher three as they clocked up double figures, Crouch, Coulson and Reed completed the scoring. Cherry Hinton Lions 0 West Wrattling 6 BM Kempton 9v9 League WRATTING came out top in the clash between teams who, between them, scored 13 goals on the opening weekend of the season. Ultimately, it was their precise passing game that proved the difference, with the visitors doing the damage in the first half when they ran up a 4-0 lead.

Coleman topped the scoring charts with two, but was denied a hat-trick when his well-struck shot came back off the bar.

The other goals came from Bayford, Cooley, Westely, and Cordwell.

Tovey sparks Rovers

Haverhill Rovers res 5

Ransomes res 0

Suffolk Reserves Cup

ROVERS' impressive run continued with the impressive dismissal of Ransomes.

Having seen off Felixstowe and Long Melford in the league, the young side showed growing signs of maturity, moving the ball quickly and getting down the sides of the opposition. They thoroughly deserved their 3-0 lead at the break – given to them by goals from Tovey, Guyon and Gage – and continued in the same vein during the second half, forcing the home side to live off scraps.

The instrumental Claydon headed in and had the effort chalked off for offside but that only postponed the inevitable, with Tovey striking twice to complete a deserved hat-trick.

Club's new students make the grade

MEMBERS of the Haverhill Tang Soo Do Korean Martial Arts Club (pictured above) were successful in a grading examination in front of 10th Dan Grand Master Lee Kang UK. Club instructor, second Dan Craig Phillips said: "It has been really great seeing some of our new students pass their first grading with flying colours with two passing their 6th Gup Orange Belt, which is the minimum grade allowed to compete at national and regional tournaments. "The students have all worked very hard in class to get to the required standard, working on forms, self defence and fighting even before being put forward for their rxamination in front of the Grand Master and Regional instructor. "This year we have been expanding and promoting the club, encouraging more people to have a go. "Tang Soo Do is suitable for males, females, boys and girls from the age of six upwards and the first lesson is free, just come along in loose clothing and bring some water." The club's sessions are held at the Leiston Community Center, Leiston Road, Haverhill (Tuesday, 7-9pm and Thursday 6.30-7.45pm).

Double red-card woe for Rovers

Ridgeons League,

A DOUBLE dismissal in the space of five minutes cost Haverhill last night (Wednesday).

Dan Cornwell gave the visitors the perfect start when he volleyed home from 15 yards in the seventh minute.

The score remained 1-0 at half time but it all went wrong for Rovers early in the second half. Stuart Kingham was adjudged to have handled a shot on the line in the 51st minute so was sent off, and the hosts converted the resulting penalty.

Louis Harper came on as a substitute in the 54th minute, but was sent off less than a minute later for what was deemed to be a reckless challenge.

The home side scored the winner five minutes later.

Kings Lynn 1 Haverhill Rovers 0 FA Cup, second qualifying round Haverhill Rovers were knocked out of the FA Cup by United Counties League opposition for the second consecutive season on Saturday, but good second-half pressure could have seen them force a replay.

The hosts were on the attack from the first whistle, and they dominated the half, almost going ahead after six minutes when Danny Beaumont lobbed just wide when put through.

Rovers' respite lasted just three more minutes, though. Robbie Harris' cross was only half-cleared and Danny White volleyed powerfully past keeper Alex Archer.

King's Lynn spurned further chances – the best when Steven Spriggs was sent through only to be foiled a good save from Archer – while Rovers' only real pressure came on the half hour when Scott Lodge tried to break through.

However, from the counter-attack the West Norfolk side went close through Beaumont and Archer produced an athletic save to keep out out Harris' low header. Rovers did manage to make inroads during the second half but there was little end product.

However, the visitors thought they had earned a penalty when referee Alex Rayner looked to be pointing towards the penalty spot after Lynn captain Paul Cousins blocked a cross with his hand.

Instead he awarded a free kick, which Jack Higgs fired just over. Haverhill's best chance to get on level terms came 15 minutes from time when Jordan Yong, formerly with Norwich City and Cambridge United, misjudged a through ball but Paul Abbott, through one on one with Linnet's keeper Alex Street, dragged his shot wide.

The hosts could have wrapped it up with later pressure producing an excellent double save from Archer and Higgs clearing a header off the line.

Club ponders pro bid

Haverhill are to investigate the possibility of employing an overseas professional for next year's campaign in the Marshall Hatchick Two Counties Championship.

Having resisted the temptation to follow the example set by the majority of top-flight teams for their debut season in Division One, they have experienced the small margins between success and failure.

And club chairman Steven Woodley admitted a tense finale had persuaded officials to explore signing an overseas player.

Haverhill finished third from bottom, but were haunted by fears that a relegated team from the Gibbs Denley

East Anglian Premier League could drop into the Marshall Hatchick, forcing three instead of two into Division Two.

"It was touch-and-go at one stage, and was a bit worrying," he said, "but by stopping in the division we know we can play at that level."

"At the start of the season we decided to stick with the players who got us into Division One, and they did well for us. But some are getting on now and while some of the youngsters who have come through – like Anthony Phillips – have done really well, we have to decide whether some of the others are ready to make the step up."

"It may be that we have to go down the road of an overseas professional. We'll have to look at the funding and at the players, and decide over the winter.

"But we've seen there is not much difference between where we finished and mid-table – that one good overseas player might make the difference."

That point was underlined in their last game against Exning on Saturday, when Haverhill would have been seventh if they had won.

As it was they lost by six wickets and finished three points adrift of Ipswich, who were fourth from bottom.

Batting first, Haverhill made 201, Scott Webb top-scoring with 53. In reply, Exning, bolstered by Tim Catley's 63, reached 203 for 6.
